

MONTVAILLANT
LYRICS REVISITING PLACES I'VE BEEN

REVISITING PLACES I'VE BEEN

MONTVAILLANT

REVISITING PLACES I'VE BEEN

I'm walking down these streets. Memories flooding back to me.
Each step feels like a beat in a song playing just for me.

Revisiting the places that I've been before.
Feeling different than I did before.
Though time has passed, I know that I still adore.
The memories that I've stored.

I see the faces of old friends. In my mind, their voices blend.
With the sounds of the city, it never ends but it's different now, it all depends.
Sometimes returning to move on. Fulfill our yearning to feel strong.
But yet no matter what brings us back.
Be sure we'll always have these memories intact.

Revisiting the places that I've been before.
Feeling different than I did before.
Though time has passed, I know that I still adore.
The memories that I've stored.

As I leave this place I know I'll never forget the face.
The city that I've come to embrace. Revisited, but never replaced.

Revisit it; get yourself back. Retrace your steps; try a different tack.
Simple refresh, not a set back. Leave your worries on the luggage rack.
Revisit it; get yourself back. Retrace your steps; try a different tack.
Simple refresh, not a set back. Leave your worries on the luggage rack.

Revisiting the places that I've been before.
Feeling different than I did before.
Though time has passed, I know that I still adore.
The memories that I've stored.

These memories that I've stored, these memories that I've stored.
These memories that I've stored, these memories that I've stored.

These memories, these memories, these memories, these memories,
these memories that I've stored.
These memories, these memories, these memories, these memories,
these memories that I've stored.